GOODE NEWS...

Star News Interview with Virgil Goode

Presidential Candidate Virgil Goode stopped by Star News on Tuesday, June 5, 2012 for an exclusive interview (click on video to the left to visit the link where the video will play). Goode spoke with Scott Coleman about the platform that Goode was running on, which includes the economy and illegal immigration. Star News covers the North Carolina cities of Burlington, Yanceyville, Reidsville and covers Danville and Martinsville in Virginia.

This upcoming week Virgil Goode and his campaign team will be in Syracuse and Buffalo, New York. They will be attending the New York Constitution Party meeting on June 23rd and working with the state organization to hopefully gain ballot access in New York.

CP CANDIDATE RECEIVES RIGHT TO LIFE ENDORSEMENT...

In an historic step, the Missouri Right to Life Political Action Committee has endorsed Cynthia Davis' race for Lt. Governor. This marks the first time that Missouri Right to Life has endorsed any candidate for statewide office outside the Democrat or Republican Parties.

In response, Davis said "We are changing the political landscape. This is the first time Missouri Right to Life has ever endorsed anyone on the Constitution Party ticket. This endorsement is good news for the Pro-Life voters because they deserve a true champion of our values--- not just lip service at election time."

Cynthia Davis spent decades trying to support and reform the Republican Party from within, even becoming a leader in the party and serving as an elected Republican official for nearly nine years. Like many other Americans, she has concluded it is a futile effort. The existing political parties can't be reformed because there are just too many special interests with too much money to allow it. In 2011 Cynthia joined the Constitution Party and made the decision it was time to improve the state of Missouri by running for Lt. Governor and hold both major parties accountable.

"When people suggest I am splitting the conservative vote, I tell them I am the only conservative in this race. Others are just varying degrees of liberal. If there is any splitting of the conservative vote, it is because some previously conservative voters are sacrificing their principles to vote for a bigger government, less constitutional choice."

RAND PAUL'S BETRAYAL -- A CONSTITUTION PARTY RESPONSE...

BY DARRELL L. CASTLE

6/11/12

Last Friday's endorsement of Mitt Romney by Senator Rand Paul conjured up images of how George Washington must have felt when betrayed by his trusted general, Benedict Arnold. That's way too harsh, you may say, because Washington was betrayed when his countrymen were fighting for their lives and the life of their nation against the greatest empire on earth at that time. Benedict Arnold traded his honor for position and power with the empire and as a result his name has been forever synonymous with treason and deceit. I can't help but conclude that Rand's endorsement of Romney falls into the same category of deceit. Those of us in the liberty movement are struggling to survive against an even more powerful empire than that which existed in Washington's day. Rand has not only set the liberty movement back but perhaps has also destroyed his father's legacy.

Why he would do it is the question that begs for an answer. Did he do it because he has been corrupted by the Washington power elite with promises of position and power? If so, then he is a deceiver and by definition a corrupt one. In addition his deception will not work because he has underestimated the rage his endorsement has provoked among his followers. Did he do it because he has always been a loyal subject of the Republican leadership and principles really don't matter to him? If that is true the result is even worse because that makes him a lying hypocrite for pretending to be something that he is not. Did he do it because he wants to be a contender in 2016 or 2020 and needs to exhibit loyalty to the leadership of the Republican Party?

Whatever the reason that Rand Paul endorsed Romney, to many of us in the liberty movement, he just eliminated himself from contention as a Presidential candidate now or in the future. He not only endorsed Romney, he said he would be honored to be Romney's running mate. He admitted, therefore, that he would be honored to serve with a man who stands opposed to virtually everything his father has represented for his 35 years in Washington. Reaction to the news has been so bad, and has come in such large numbers, that one cannot help but wonder if he did not miscalculate.

The fact remains that it is Ron the liberty movement has supported for 35 years, not his son. Is it possible that Ron did not approve his son's decision in advance? It hardly seems likely but if so a brief statement to that effect would seem to be in order. The statement would need to be something similar to this—

Rand is my son and I love him but I do not support his decision to endorse Mitt Romney. I completely disavow his decision and I have separated myself from it. Should I fail to gain the Republican nomination, which now seems likely, I will be giving my endorsement to the Constitution Party's candidates, Virgil Goode, and Jim Clymer.

That statement would go a long way toward preserving Ron's legacy as the champion of liberty that he has always appeared to be.

What candidate will you support now that Ron Paul has admitted defeat in his bid for the Republican nomination and his son, Rand, has proven himself to be just another Republican loyalist? I urge you to consider the Constitution Party and its candidates—Virgil Goode for President and Jim Clymer for Vice President. When Ron Paul was eliminated from the Republican nomination in 2008, he endorsed the Constitution Party's candidates.

A good investment...

When considering what is most important in life, we invest in those things. They can be anything from a house, to a reliable vehicle to get to work, maybe some gold and silver, saving money for our children's college education and more.

But have you ever stopped and considered the importance of Investing in the future of preserving our liberties as a country? What does that even look like?

Many say they love and support the ideas of the Constitution Party but often forget it takes finances to make a political party work. Everything from a phone line, computers, e-mail services, staff, ballot access, money to help elect candidates to office and more.

We know times are very hard in this economy but sometimes it takes sacrifice to restore liberty. We only have to look to our Founding Fathers to see this.

Maybe you can skip having that morning coffee from the coffee shop this week or eating Friday night dinner out with the family once a month or sacrificing the money to buy that new music cd to help the Constitution Party function in it's day-to day activities. Every dollar is important and is put to good use.
